28 INTRODUCTION

29 The above-captioned petition was filed on May 11, 2000, 30 by NICHOLAS SCOTT CANNON and BETH GARDNER as guardian at litem for 31 petitioner, (hereinafter "Petitioner"), alleging that SAMIR Y.
32 TOMA, (hereinafter "Respondent"), acted in the capacity of a talent
33 agency without possessing the required California talent agency 34 license pursuant to Labor Code §1700.5¹. The petitioner seeks from 35 the Labor Commissioner a determination voiding the parties 1998 36 management agreement ab initio and requests disgorgement of all

37 ¹ All statutory citations will refer to the California Labor Code unless otherwise specified.

1 commissions paid to respondent stemming from this agreement.

2 Respondent filed his answer with this agency on June 15, 3 2000. A hearing was scheduled before the undersigned attorney, 4 specially designated by the Labor Commissioner to hear this matter.
5 The hearing commenced on September 25, 2000, at the San Diego 6 Office of the Labor Commissioner. Petitioner was represented by 7 Jeffrey M. Byer of Sandler, Lasky, Laube, Byer & Valdez LLP;
8 respondent appeared through his attorney Gastone Bebi. Due 9 consideration having been given to the testimony, documentary 10 evidence and arguments presented, the Labor Commissioner adopts the 11 following determination of controversy.

12
13 FINDINGS OF FACT

14 1. Petitioner is a musician, comedian and actor. The 15 parties entered into a 3-year exclusive management agreement 16 executed on February 17, 1998. The agreement provided, inter alia, 17 that the respondent's responsibility included all engagements and 18 other types of public appearances². By the terms of the agreement, 19 the parties were to split 50/50 all profits earned by the 20 petitioner.

21 2. From February 1998 through July 1998, the 22 respondent, eager to promote petitioner and introduce him to the 23 Los Angeles comedy community drove then 17-year-old Nicholas to and 24 from L.A., setting up stand-up engagements at The Comedy Store and 25

26 ² Section 2 of the "Contract Agreement" between the parties provided, "AS 27 MANAGER IT IS AGREED THAT, BUT NOT LIMITED TO, ALL ENGAGEMENTS AND OTHER TYPES OF PUBLIC APPEARANCES WILL BE THE MANAGER'S RESPONSIBILITY."

1 the Improv.

2 3. Petitioner soon established a following and made 3 regular appearances at both the Improv and The Comedy Store venues.
4 Petitioner soon began appearing on cruises, radio shows, and 5 colleges in the San Diego and Los Angeles areas. Television 6 opportunities soon materialized reflected by petitioner's 7 performance on the Keenan Ivory Wayans television program Keenan
8 and Kel and appearances on Nickelodeon.

9 4. In October of 1997, the petitioner engaged the 10 services of Marquee Tollin/Robbins Inc., an additional talent 11 manager to handle all of petitioner's television and film work. In 12 the summer of 1998 Tollin Robbins hired Karen Forman of 13 Metropolitan Talent to act as petitioner's talent agent.

14 5. On October 8, 1998, petitioner dissatisfied with 15 respondent's services terminated the agreement. In November of 16 1999, respondent filed a breach of contract law suit against the 17 petitioner in the Superior Court, County of San Diego, Case No.
18 GIC737891 seeking past and future commission. In response, 19 petitioner filed this action seeking a determination by the Labor 20 Commissioner that the contract is illegal and void against public 21 policy.

22
23 CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

24 1. It is undisputed that as an actor and comedienne, 25 petitioner is "artist" within the meaning of Labor Code §1700.4(b).

26 2. The only issue is whether based on the evidence 27 presented at this hearing, did the respondent operate as a "talent

1 agency" within the meaning of Labor Code §1700.40(a)? If so, are 2 there any applicable defenses afforded the respondent?

3 3. Labor Code §1700.40(a) defines "talent agency" as, 4 "a person or corporation who engages in the occupation of 5 procuring, offering, promising, or attempting to procure employment 6 or engagements for an artist or artists." In Waisbren v.
7 Peppercorn Production, Inc (1995) 41 Cal.App.4th 246, the court
8 held that any single act of procuring employment subjects the agent 9 to the Talent Agencies Act's licensing requirement, thereby 10 upholding the Labor Commissioner's long standing interpretation 11 that a license is required for any procurement activities, no
12 matter how incidental such activities are to the agent's business 13 as a whole.

14 4. Respondent contends that his primary duty was to 15 counsel and guide petitioner's career and that any incidental acts 16 of procurement should not subject him to the Act's licencing
17 requirements. In respondent's moving papers, he quotes Wachs v.
18 Curry, which stands for the proposition that, "if counseling and 19 directing the clients' careers constitutes the significant part of 20 the agent's business then he or she is not subject to the licensing 21 requirement of the Act." Wachs, supra., 13 Cal.App.4th 616 at 627.
22 The Waisbren decision soundly rejects this idea. Waisbren, states, 23 "Given Wachs's recognition of the limited nature of the issue
24 before it, we regard as dicta . . . its statement that the Act 25 does not apply unless a person's procurement function is 26 significant. Because the Wachs dicta is contrary to the Act's 27 language and purpose, we decline to follow it. In that regard, we

1 note that Wachs applied an overly narrow concept of 'occupation'
2 and did not consider the remedial purpose of the Act, the decisions 3 of the Labor Commissioner, or the Legislature's adoption of the 4 view (as expressed in the California Entertainment Commission's 5 Report) that a license is necessary for incidental procurement 6 activities. Thus, we conclude that the Wachs dicta is incorrect to 7 the extent it indicates that a license is required only where a 8 person's procurement efforts are 'significant.'" Waisbren, supra, 9 at 261. As a result, the Labor Commissioner continues to follow
10 Waisbren and the long-standing policy that even incidental 11 procurement of employment requires a license.

12 5. Respondent maintains that Tollin Robbins, 13 petitioner's film and television manager, as well as other "agents" 14 procured most if not all of petitioner's engagements. Notably, 15 respondent did not provide testimony from any licensed talent
16 agent, nor produced any competent evidence that other talent agents 17 were involved in the negotiation or procurement of petitioner's 18 stand-up engagements. Conversely, the respondent's testimony was 19 severely impeached when comparing his sworn deposition. In 20 respondent's deposition he stated, "[I] scheduled him to perform at 21 the Improv up in L.A." (Depo. Pg. 199 line 27) When asked whether 22 respondents actually booked performances at the Improv, he stated, 23 "Yes sir." Respondent also stated in his sworn deposition that he 24 set up appearances at The Comedy Store. (Depo. Pg. 121 line 1) 25 Respondent further stated that he made the arrangements with the 26 particular club to have him appear. (Depo. Pg. 121 line 11).
27 Respondent's testimony was riddled with similar inconsistencies.

1 6. Finally, respondent's contract that he created and 2 entered into with the petitioner, expressly maintained that the 3 responsibility for all engagements and public appearances was the 4 managers. Applying Waisbren, it is clear respondent acted in the 5 capacity of a talent agency within the meaning of Labor Code 6 §1700.4(a).

7 7. Labor Code section 1700.5 provides that "no person 8 shall engage in or carry on the occupation of a talent agency
9 without first procuring a license therefor from the Labor 10 Commissioner." It was stipulated the respondent had never procured 11 a talent agency license.

12 8. Respondent argues that the petitioner filed his 13 petition late, and therefore the petition must be dismissed.
14 Respondent argues that Labor Code section 1700.44(c) provides that 15 "no action or proceeding shall be brought pursuant to [the Talent 16 Agencies Act] with respect to any violation which is alleged to 17 have occurred more than one year prior to the commencement of this 18 action or proceeding." Respondent contends that any violations 19 must have occurred prior to the October 1998 termination. The 20 petition being filed on May 11, 2000, consequently violates the 21 statute of limitations. Here, the petitioner raises the issue of 22 respondent's unlicensed status purely as a defense to the 23 proceedings brought by respondent's action against the petitioner 24 filed in superior court.

25 9. A statute of limitations is procedural, that is it 26 only affects the remedy, not the substantive right or obligation.
27 It runs only against causes of action and defenses seeking

1 affirmative relief, and not against any other defenses to an 2 action. The statute of limitations does not bar the defense of 3 illegality of a contract, and in any action or proceeding where the 4 plaintiff is seeking to enforce the terms of an illegal contract, 5 the other party may allege and prove illegality as a defense 6 without regard to whether the statute of limitations for bringing 7 an action or proceeding has already expired. Sevano v. Artistic 8 Production, Inc., (1997)TAC No. 8-93 pg.11.

9 10. Additionally, this issue was brought before the 10 California Court of Appeals in Park v. Deftones 84 Cal.Rptr.2d 616, 11 at 618, which agreed with the Labor Commissioners ruling in Moreno 12 v. Park (1998) TAC No. 9-97, p.4, stating, "the attempt to collect 13 commissions allegedly due under the agreement was itself a 14 violation of the Act." In that case, as here, the petitioner has 15 brought this case before the Labor Commissioner as a result of 16 respondents superior court action. Park adds, "it also assures 17 that the party who has engaged in illegal activity may not avoid 18 its consequences through the timing of his own collection action."
19 Park, supra at 618. We thus conclude that §1700.44(c) does not bar 20 petitioner from asserting the defense of illegality of the contract 21 on the ground that respondent acted as a talent agent without a 22 license.

23 11. In Buchwald v. Superior Court (1967) 254 Cal.App.2d 24 347, 351, the court held that because "the clear object of the Act 25 is to prevent improper persons from becoming [talent agents] and to 26 regulate such activity for the protection of the public, a contract 27 between an unlicensed [agent] and an artist is void." We do

1 recognize the respondent went to great lengths in providing travel, 2 expenses and opportunities to the petitioner; however, the 3 resulting contract establishing a 50/50 split of the profits
4 between the parties is unconscionable.

6 ORDER

7 For the above-stated reasons, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that 8 the 1998 contract between petitioner NICHOLAS SCOTT CANNON and 9 respondent, SAMIR Y. TOMA is unlawful and void ab initio.
10 Respondent has no enforceable rights under that contract.

11 Having made no clear showing that the respondent
12 collected commissions within the one-year statute of limitations 13 prescribed by Labor Code §1700.44(c), petitioner is not entitled to 14 a monetary recovery.
